Detailed Product Information:

This Digital Field Trip uses virtual reality technology to allow students to visit a bog in Ontario without getting their feet wet! It is a truly interactive CD-ROM incorporating animations, narration, games, text, full color photographs and a comprehensive workbook in one easy-to-use package.

The Digital Field Trip to The Wetlands teaches the principles of wetlands ecology and encourages an awareness of the importance of wetlands conservation.

What does it cover?

The five modules, Field Trip, Study of a Bog, Wetlands Types, Mechanisms of a Wetland and Our Endangered Wetlands are integrated into one fully interactive learning tool.

- Electronic field trip to a northern bog.
- In-depth look at the bog, its formation and succession, plant and animal adaptations, and the food web within the bog.
- Issues surrounding the bog including flooding, erosion, conservation, pollution and nutrient cycles. Learn the complex process of photosynthesis through a simple but elegant animation!
- Variety of bogs are introduced including Carrs, Swamps, Peatlands, and Marshes.
- Virtual reality on-screen environment using QuickTime VR. Travel along the edge of a wetland and view its inhabitants, features and characteristics with this powerful tool.
- On-screen field notes gives you vital information about the plant and animal life that can be seen as you move from site to site.
- Click on the various plants and animals to learn more about them and how they interact with the environment.
- Fully interactive Food Web game that tests your knowledge of the bog's food chain.
- Detailed, full color animation accompanied by narration to facilitate learning.
- On-line glossary.
- Complete Study Guide with activities and instructions.
